Biography for Shannon Phillips

Shannon represents private and public-sector employers in employment litigation in federal and state courts, arbitrations, and in administrative hearings. Shannon’s practice emphasizes preventive counseling to avoid or minimize the risk of litigation. Specific areas of advice include assistance in disciplining and terminating employees and compliance with disability and leave laws. Shannon represents employers in the full range of labor matters, from contract negotiation to representation in grievance arbitrations and unfair labor practice hearings. She also provides training to supervisors and employees on compliance with employment and labor laws, including topics such as sexual harassment and workplace investigations. Shannon conducts investigations into allegations of workplace misconduct, including sexual harassment allegations.

Biography for Quinn Oppenheim

Quinn is a trial lawyer who maintains a general litigation practice with an emphasis on employment-related matters. She represents corporations in complex civil litigation matters, including employment disputes, class action defense, intellectual property litigation, commercial contract disputes, and corporate fiduciary duty litigation. Quinn serves as the leader of Summit’s Litigation Practice Group. Prior to joining Summit Law Group, Quinn worked as an Assistant Public Defender with the Defender Association of Philadelphia. While there, she represented clients charged with serious felonies and tried hundreds of cases to verdict.
